Dedication

We, the class of 1947, dedicate our yearbook to Ralph W. Haskins. For three years we have been guided by his steady hand and have come to admire and respect him. His main interest was the welfare of the students at Brockton High School and he did his utmost to promote it. Many of us came to know him personally, making us realize that he was as fine a man as he was a headmaster. We regret that the two classes to follow us, who have so benefited by his guidance, will not have the opportunity to graduate under his leadership.

President's Address

By HERBERT DAVID BERMAN

On behalf of the class of 1947, I extend a cordial welcome to parents, relatives, and all our guests. This graduation day is an important milestone in the lives of four hundred and twenty young people, in whose welfare you are all interested, as your presence here proves.

For many of us, the receiving of our long-awaited diploma, signifying our honorable discharge from Brockton High School, will be somewhat sad, for it marks the end of a pleasant period in our lives. In addition to the routine study involved in completing our courses, we shall always cherish the memory of thrilling football, basketball, and baseball games, and frequently recall our pleasant associations with classmates and faculty during our four-year journey. But now, a longer journey awaits us, for these exercises mark only the first cross-roads on the march toward that distinguished title which we all hope to deserve eventually: the right to be called an educated man or woman, awake to his obligations.

Let us consider what some of those obligations are, now that we have so long enjoyed so many privileges.

If you will pardon my youth, which I cannot help, and my inexperience, which I hope to remedy somewhat during the next few years, I should like to express a few simple and humble thoughts about these obligations.

One of our principal duties is to choose the vocation for which we are best suited, so that we can begin to establish ourselves as efficient workers in some field of activity, or profession.

When we attempt to secure a position, we shall find that the world insists on higher proficiency than our school has demanded. In fact, the world expects one-hundred percent efficiency—not merely seventy percent. For instance, if a violinist should apply to Koussevitsky, the famous orchestra leader, for a place among his musicians, the youth would certainly be dismissed promptly, unless he played flawlessly during his audition. Likewise, a pharmacist must make no mistakes in compounding a prescription. One slight error may mean death for some unfortunate person. In order to obtain this perfection in our work, we must cultivate accuracy and perseverance, the power to remain at a task in spite of hardship and continual failure.

But the task of cultivating these fine traits of character is not so easy as it sounds. It is natural to follow the line of least resistance. We enjoy doing things that do not require too much energy, mental or physical. But, to succeed in life, whether we go to college or obtain employment, we must determine our particular abilities, and then work hard to develop them. Thus we shall become industrious, conscientious, and proficient at whatever job is assigned us, instead of degenerating into chronic bluffers and loafers.

Some people believe that a college degree will automatically enable them to obtain and hold a responsible position without effort on their part. They are dazzled by titles received upon graduation from a university.

But these mistaken folks overlook the fact that a careless attitude toward duty or work means that all their labors in life will be mediocre or superficial. Becoming efficient in one trade or profession is therefore one of our first obligations, so that we may achieve financial self-reliance, after so many years of dependence upon our indulgent families.

Until now we have enjoyed many hours of play. Although some prophets predict that practical modern inventions will provide more leisure time, nevertheless many recreation hours will have to be surrendered, when we assume permanent situations. Therefore we must learn to spend the leisure time we do have to the greatest advantage. Possibly we can develop hobbies which will give us both enjoyment and relaxation. Other leisure pursuits could be the reading of good books, or attending excellent plays or athletic contests. Better still, we can actually participate in sports. But, whatever our methods of diversion may be, we should certainly learn to make the most of our free hours. By so doing, we shall refresh our minds and bodies so that the demands upon them will be met more easily.

Another obligation involves our duty to our parents and family. For years they have provided us with comfortable homes, clothing, and maintenance. They have cared for us when we were ill, and encouraged us when we were disheartened. They have sacrificed much, so that we may be contented and blessed with educational opportunities. Now it is our turn to do everything possible to repay our parents, not in financial return only, but by accomplishments which will make them happy and proud of us in their homes.

By the word "home," I do not mean the comforts afforded us by modern mechanical appliances, or by the generosity of our parents. The furnishings of a house may include many labor-saving devices. Yet something very important is lacking—and the house is not a home—unless co-operation, good-nature, and unselfishness are shown by each member of the family to every other member of the family. Education teaches us that a home is not merely a convenient place for weekly parties or selfish demands on an over-worked mother or indulgent father, but a place where genuine affection, goodfellowship, and high ideals are the foundation of family happiness and peace.

A third obligation involves our duty to be civic-minded and loyal to our government. Many people think it is unnecessary for them to shoulder, actively, the responsibility of government. They want someone else to carry the burden; then these shirkers proceed to criticize. Here, education should teach the fairer policy. Among the leaders of city, country, or federal government, evil and corrupt politicians may sometimes be found. But, by thoughtfully analyzing political issues and insisting on fine men and women to represent him in office, an educated person can improve the political picture, eliminating graft and corruption wherever it exists. Justice, equality, freedom of speech, freedom of press, and the numerous other basic principles of American government should be more than mere words. Insistence upon these basic principles which draw no line of distinction between one human being and another must be the groundwork for all our thinking, where governmental issues are concerned.

Another obligation lies in our duty to God. Without recognition and reliance on Him, our lives will be meaningless. It is more important to win Divine approval than it is to impress our fellow man. He who knows our inner thoughts is not in-

Class History

Each class of seniors has pointed to some important event and claimed distinction because the students were graduating at that particular time. The Class of 1947 is not different. It is the first class since the beginning of World War II to graduate without the shadow of military conscription. Students will be able to attend colleges or universities, and to plan work for the future without fear of being interrupted. Such is the future, but let us also look back to the past—the three eventful years that most of us have spent in Brockton High School.

We have followed with interest boys from our class representing our school in the field of sports. As sophomores we shared the glory of our successful varsity teams. When juniors, we watched our classmates make fine records on football, basketball, and baseball teams. Finally, as seniors, we followed that year's record with an equally brilliant one when the football team, under Mr. Frank Saba, our new coach, ran the undefeated streak to sixteen games. Two of the star players were chosen all-scholastic. The basketball team was one of the hoop powers in the State and made an excellent record at the "Tech" tourney.

It was during the junior year that track was reinstated as a varsity sport under the tutelage of Coach Sandrock. In the senior year the girls' sports program was widened to include field hockey and softball, Eldon Keith Field being used for practices and games. For the Cheer Leaders, an outstanding innovation was the introduction of black skirts, red shirts and the smart looking Eisenhower jackets in black and white checks.

The senior class play, "Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court," the adventurous comedy by Mark Twain, attracted a capacity crowd. The cast spent many long hours perfecting roles under the efficient coaching of Miss Ruth Stokes. The result was one of the best plays in years.

In January enchantingly entitled "Tropicana," the senior-junior prom, gave us a never-to-be-forgotten evening. Under swaying palm trees and amid jungle scenes seniors, juniors, and guests enjoyed the dancing.

As juniors, 52 boys and girls of the Class of 1947 served as ushers at the graduation exercises of the Class of 1946. The 26 girls looked their best in white flowing gowns, carrying the newly introduced daisy chain, while the remaining ushers, 26 boys, took care of seating parents and guests.

A teachers' training program, enabling senior girls to observe elementary teaching technique, was introduced for the first time during our senior year. Seven senior girls signed for the six-week course and spent a few hours each week visiting grade schools.

Three boy musicians of the school band represented Brockton High at the annual music festival held at Brattleboro, Vermont, where they joined other student musicians from all parts of New England. Mr. Spencer, music instructor, accompanied the boys.

We have spent three eventful years working and living together, and the results have been fairly happy ones thanks to the helpful guidance of our class advisers, Miss Doris Hathaway, Miss Elizabeth Elzbut and Miss Pauline Hoit. Now that we are on our own, we hope that our future actions as responsible citizens will determine in some way the success of the fight that is going on for a peaceful, prosperous, and united world.

Class Ode

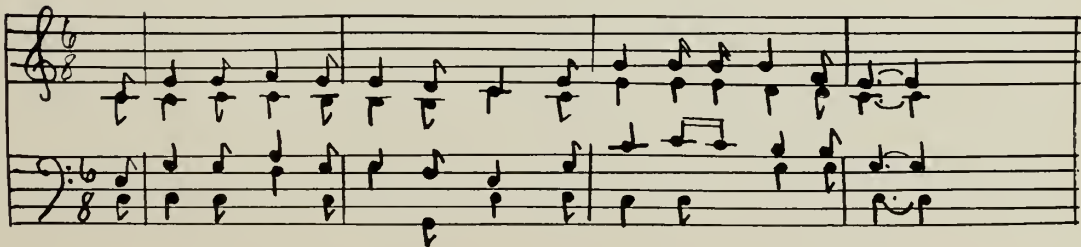

We set our sails, with hope anew
Prepare our journey vast
Across the stormy sea of life
Upon which we are cast.

JOANNE ROACH
Music

Our course is rough, our route unknown
We sail on endlessly
Our ship by tempest winds is blown
But strong of faith are we.

We pull the oars against the tide
Of strife and hate and fears
Until we reach that sheltered port
We've searched for through the years.

Class Poem

By ADELE C. GIUDICI

Now homeward march the heavy hearts
That tramped the battlefields,
Our youth once more with tranquil souls
Will grasp what Fate now yields.
Ne'er more, must greed and hate cause war,
And summon from our schools,
Young men deprived of studying;
To shoulder war-like tools.

What road to take? The paths are wide!
The one that climbs the hill
Will fashion doctors, artists great,
All blessed with fighting will;
And those who make America
The queen of all the lands:
The farmer, mason, engineer—
With trained and skillful hands.

What rôle, oh youth, do you now seek
To satisfy your heart?
Upon this vast and awesome stage,
We each must play our part;
If distant vistas beckon you,
Perchance you'll choose to roam;
Or be content with household chores,
A family life, a home.

Whatever road we choose to take,
We all shall reminisce;
Our happy, carefree, high-school days,
The days of endless bliss!
With hands rejoined and voices high,
And eyes upturned to heav'n,
We'll beg that God forever guide
The Class of Forty-Sev'n!

Class Oration

by FREDERICK JOSEPH BUMPUS

EDUCATION—THE TASK OF A LIFETIME

I feel that in being chosen to deliver the class oration, I have been entrusted with the responsibility of bringing before you, to the best of my ability, a message of real significance for all here today. A former New England president has summed up my theme briefly and well. In the words of Calvin Coolidge: "The school is not the end but only the beginning of an education."

Our education has just begun. As we, in many cases, end our formal education, we should realize how completely true this statement is. Education is a process not of few years, but of a lifetime. If we, upon the completion of our formal education, are to throw away all pursuit of learning, our years of work and study have been in vain. The world, especially in this age of research and progress, is a place of constant change. In ten years, many of the facts and crafts which we have learned will have been supplanted. Only those who keep abreast with the constantly changing pattern of the world—political, scientific, and cultural—will be fit to do their part in guiding the destiny of our nation. With a firm foundation, the continuation of our studies is essential to a worthwhile contribution to world peace and harmony.

If we wish to accept this responsibility, we must never adopt a smug "know it all" attitude. Such an attitude is a tremendous threat to all. The motivating force behind America's march to wealth, influence, and power has been a dissatisfaction, an insatiable desire for "something better." With this realization that nothing is perfect—that everything can be improved upon—comes a feeling of humility and tolerance, mixed with the urge for constant progress. Our education has shown us the value of the finer things; it is for us now to follow the example of our own pioneers—through study, reading, observation, tolerance, understanding, and a firm belief in God—striving for the ideal of universal peace and cooperation.

Our English classes have aimed at the development of an interest in great literature—both classical and modern. A real appreciation and understanding of all types of literature is a great gift to any man. Not many of us will now be tempted—even when we are no longer obliged to study the works of really fine authors—to disregard this wealth of education and enjoyment and to content ourselves with a perusal of cheap scandal sheets and pulp magazines. We must not lose the value of the contribution to civilization found in great literature. Throughout history, one of the first harbingers of the downfall of the world's great empires has been a decline, not only in literature, but in all types of culture and enlightenment. A study of the rise and fall of educational accomplishment reveals a remarkable parallel to the rise and fall of the fortunes of all mankind. If the present trend toward the cheap and vulgar in all types of reading continues, we shall face one of the greatest possible dangers to world progress—internal corrosion. We cannot allow this to happen. It is our duty to continue to cultivate the literary tastes so carefully instilled in us during the past few years.

A headline in a recent magazine read: "Are You Smart Enough to Be a Citizen?" Our classes in social studies have equipped us to face the world and its problems—economic, social, and political. Nothing is more important in this day and age when "One World" has become a household phrase. The day may soon come when we shall truly be citizens of the world. The expediency of the United Nations is being put to the test. The choice will someday be ours as to what type of world organization will best provide and preserve universal peace. Only those who are well-informed and who keep abreast with world affairs will be fit to judge in this crucial moment. As the atomic bomb—with its potential store of destruction, misery, and desolation—hangs like a grim shadow over our heads, it is sheer folly for any one to shirk his responsibility of being well-informed on all the facets of world affairs.

The peace, which we all hope and pray will be concluded amicably in the near future, will not be merely a paper peace. It must be born of understanding and trust throughout the world. Much of the trouble in the world today, ranging from petty bickering to serious differences, stems from a deep-rooted distrust of that which we do not fully understand. As the years roll by, the pattern of world consolidation is apparent. With every passing year we draw ever nearer to that Utopia which is the aim of so many thinking men—a United States of the World. No world union can be split by the differences which today mark our intercourse as separate nations. Disputes between Russia and Great Britain, between the United States and France, will assume an aspect much the same as bickering between Maryland and Wisconsin, between Utah and Kansas. It is plain to see that the first and foremost requirement of world federation is harmony and understanding between the members of such a union. Such an understanding can be achieved only if each person makes it his solemn duty to educate himself in the customs, living habits, and government of our world neighbors. Obviously, such a task extends far beyond the high school level; it is a task which requires study and research throughout one's adult years. Such a study, however, is not confined to the perusal of huge and imposing tomes. Countless remarkable books and papers of compelling interest have been written on a great many such subjects. World travel, either in reality or in the pages of a book, is one of the most thrilling of human experiences. He who avails himself of this opportunity will find the experience not only enlightening and gratifying, but he will also be rewarded with a better understanding of the problems of his international neighbors.

There will come—there must come—a day when peace and harmony throughout the world will be a reality. How, though, can we look for universal agreement when factions within our own country insist on carrying on seemingly endless debates and disputes in the blind pursuit of their own selfish ends? A great deal of the blame for this quarreling and lack of cooperation rests with the common citizen, even though he has no immediate contact with the trouble. Any really concerted action on the part of the people of this nation is certain to bring tangible results. No individual or group can long resist an active protest from those who really control the fate of our nation—the voters. Failure to exercise this power of the vote is a great weakness in our American life today. An amazing number of Americans make no effort to take advantage of this, their greatest heritage. In the last national election a little more than a third of the eligible voters throughout the country took the trouble to go to the polls. What makes this all the more remarkable is that other nations—supposedly "second rate" democracies—have put America to shame in the task of "getting out the vote." It is imperative that our great nation—the chief exponent of the rule of the common people and the acknowledged leader of the nations of the world—remedy this disgraceful situation. The main cause of this negligence on the part of millions of American citizens is lack of information on the issues involved. There is nothing that can detract more from interest in an election than an insufficient understanding of the importance of choosing capable men for public office. The average person stays away from the polls, not through malicious unconcern, but through an awareness of his ignorance of the issues involved. The remedy for this situation does not lie in refraining from voting, but in setting to work to acquire information essential to intelligent voting. In order to preserve a really worthwhile democracy, this nation must increase through education the number of clear thinking people, intensely interested in all national and international problems. There is no greater menace to the future of our nation than widespread ignorance and indifference among the masses.

We have received a firm foundation for the tackling of these problems. In a few years we shall be eligible to cast our first votes. Realizing our responsibility to our government, today we are determined that our education will be a continual process, for we must not be dead weight in the world of the future. We must have clear heads and cool judgment, for in the youth of today lies this nation's only hope for domestic and international harmony.

Band

The Brockton High School Band, founded in 1904, completed another successful year. Playing at all the home and at two out-of-town football games, the members delighted sports fans with ingenious demonstrations during the halves. Some of the highlights in their repertory for 1946-47 included the following: American Legion Parade on Armistice Day, Tech Tournament games in Boston Garden, Eastern Mass. Music Festival at Medford, assemblies, participation of representatives in the All New England Band, Brattleboro, Vt., and the May Festival at B. H. S.

The officers of the band for this year were as follows: President, Edward Hull; Vice-President, Irvin Doress; Treasurer, Gino Ferrini; and Business Manager, Robert Laing. The position of drum major was handled by Robert Moore, while the presence of drum majorettes Phyllis Plouffe, Mareca Kussmaul, Janice Plouffe and Mary Crocker livened things up a bit for the onlookers. Mr. Robert A. Spencer was responsible for the expert division.

Glee Club

The Girls' Glee Club, in its eleventh active season, concluded another successful year after its members had participated in many musical presentations. Since its founding in 1936, the club has been under the supervision of Mr. George Sawyer Dunham, prominent leader in the musical field in New England. One of the most outstanding activities of the year was the May Festival, at which the girls, combined with the Male Chorus, presented a spring concert. The officers for the year 1946-47 were as follows: President, Gwenna Allen; Vice-President, Gloria Gasse; Secretary, Marjorie Nelson; Treasurer, Carol Cedergren.

A Capella Choir

The A Capella Choir came into its own this year. For the first time in the history of this organization the group had a weekly rehearsal of its own. In addition to learning and presenting the music used for the Christmas Pageant, the choir acquired a concert repertoire of several selections which were presented at the spring festival. The group was composed of members of the Girls' Glee Club and the Male Chorus who had music the third hour on Fridays or a study period. It was a volunteer group which strove to meet the standards of production associated with an A Capella Choir. Muriel Nash was the club's able accompanist.

Officers of the choir were as follows: Howard Perkins, President; Joanne Ahlgren, First Vice-President; Jean Davis, Second Vice-President; Mary Harmer, Secretary; Davis Scudder, Treasurer.

Male Chorus

A large group of sophomores joined the veteran juniors and seniors to make our Male Chorus outstanding this year both as to size and quality of performance. Early in the fall the Armed Forces claimed three loyal and capable members in the persons of John Bates, Richard Nelson, and Ralph Andrews. Graduation is taking from our ranks such contributing members as Edward Shemeta, John Sedell, Paul Smith, Vahan Boyajian, Earl Batson and Wesley Allen, soloist Howard Perkins, and our basso-profundo and club president, Richard Polson. Next year our club will be built around such outstanding newcomers as tenors Henry Belcher, Raymond Cummings, and Robert Forsberg, bassos Davis Scudder and Gerald Grant, not to mention the club jester, Gene Piers. Paced by four excellent officers, namely Richard Polson, President; Howard Perkins, Vice-President; George Harris, Treasurer; Robert Forsberg, Secretary, the club learned many new numbers this year. A typical program offered by the club in its numerous school and outside appearances was as follows:

1. Man's Life's a Vapor (round)
2. I Ain't Gwine Study War No More..... Spiritual
3. Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes..... Old English
4. Away to Rio!..... Sea Chanty
5. The Stars in Heaven..... Gibbs
6. Climbin' Up the Mountain..... Spiritual
7. The Shadow March..... Protheroe
8. The Mountain Girl..... Kentucky Mountain Tune
9. The Scissors-Grinder..... Flemish Folk Song

Next year the Male Chorus hopes to present more programs similar in nature.

Orchestra

The B. H. S. Orchestra, which plays an important part in the year's activities, completed another successful season this year. It was founded in 1914 by Mr. George Sawyer Dunham, well known in musical circles. It is he, with the assistance of Mr. Robert Spencer, who is responsible for the excellent training of the orchestra.

In addition to awakening sleepy students on Wednesday morning assemblies, this popular organization has furnished the music between the acts of the Senior Class Play, "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court," participated in the Pops Concert, and held its own at the annual Music Festival.

Membership in the orchestra is open to any student who plays a musical instrument. This year, as in years past, a large number of boys and girls have taken the opportunity of developing their musical talents under the expert guidance of Mr. Dunham.

Senior Dues Collectors

"Pecunia", "dinero", "Geld", "argent"—it's the same in any language—was the prime interest of class treasurer Bob LaPalme and his corps of Senior Class Dues Collectors. Many were the times they "reminded" us that our annual shekel was still lacking in the treasury. More often than not the practically impossible task of obtaining the currency resembled the struggle to be first in the lunch line, or to secure a football ticket before 3 o'clock. In the end, however, the bank was fairly bursting with money, which was put to good use. The collectors responsible for the financial success of the class were the following: Elroy Anderson, Marilyn Betts, Patricia Hilchie, Anna Dodd, Patricia Clifford, Patricia Kiley, Alma Montagno, Frances Osword, Natalie Rasher, Doris Sorgman, Meredith Vining, Eldana Wright and Dolores Kaseta.

Cheer Leaders

The Cheer Leaders, who continuously proved that they held an important and difficult position in B. H. S. sports, have earned permanent recognition here in these pages.

These energetic students devoted many of their free hours to learning and practicing cheers and acrobatics. The girls' gym was the spot which rang with cries for our dear old alma mater. There they constantly were inspired with ideas for new yells which would be well received by the cheering section and keep up the morale of the spectators as well.

Wearing black skirts, bright red jerseys, and smart black and white check Eisenhower jackets, the nine girls, assisted by the boys, displayed their talents at every game, at home or away. Constantly maintaining radiant, sincere smiles and perfect formation, they kept us shouting, not only during the games, but in the interludes as well.

Jeanne Conroy, Carilyn Peirce, Gloria Grant, Frances Cornell, Marise Sawtell, Marilyn Peirce, Claire Sullivan, Patricia Clifford, Jean Lewis, Don Rae and Jerard Dililillo are the ones who "never said die" and cheered us on to victory, even when defeat seemed almost inevitable. Their good sportsmanship, obvious in both our wins and losses, made us proud that Brockton High was represented by such a grand group of boys and girls.

Hi-Y

'To create, maintain and extend throughout the school and the community high standards of Christian Character" was the creed which the Brockton Hi-Y Club of 1946-'47 strove to keep. A school organization, affiliated with the Y. M. C. A. and directed by Edward J. Beyor, the Hi-Y Club consists of a group of young men of good character and high standards, chosen without regard for race, color or creed. This year the club has been especially active, holding meetings weekly. Among the outstanding activities for the 1946-'47 season were the following: a series of talks on "World Problems," an alumni reunion, another series on "Knowing Brockton Better," a taffy sale, Co-Ed Night, High School Faculty Night, and a closing banquet. On March 11, members of the club filled most of the important positions in Brockton City Government, including those of Mayor, City Clerk, Water Commissioner, Supt. of Schools, Council members, etc. The officers of the club who advocated clean sports, clean speech, clean scholarship and clean living were President, Robert Lawson; Vice-President, John Conley; Secretary, Elroy Anderson; and Treasurer, Fred Bumpus. Joseph E. Arms, Alden L. Lane, William J. Montgomery and Nelson E. Sanborn served as advisers.

Yearbook Staff

The staff of the 1947 yearbook has compiled and edited what looks to be one of the finest annuals of B. H. S. The rising cost of materials and the paper shortage inconvenienced the staff members, but they strove to make the book a memorable one. With General Adviser Harold T. Eaton, they waded through endless heaps of information in regard to biographies, pictures, clubs, activities, and sports with the hope of assembling an informative and enjoyable volume. Under the leadership of Mary Louise Long, Make-Up Editor, and Sally Parmenter, Literary Editor, the board included the following: Caroline Bornstein, literary staff; Marjorie Carr, girls' sports; Ellen Eaton, art editor, with Betsey Walker and Nancy Davenport as her aides; Robert Wahlgren, business manager, assisted by Elroy Anderson, Betty Hutchinson, Jean Ann Lindsay, Paula Lemasa; Ralph Miskinis and John Sedell, photographers; Lucia Minerva and Dorothy Pileggi, typists. The yearbook is also indebted to Miss Alden, Miss Goodridge, Mr. Kelly, and Mr. Long, whose untiring labors made its completion possible.

Brocktonia Staff

Brocktonia has completed another successful year of service to Brockton High School students. Members representing all three classes contributed to each of the eight issues. Among the innovations this year were Alumni News and Bartered Corn. Old favorites still popular among the students included 'Teen Crier, Random Portraits, and Talent Scout. Editorials from the pen of A. Harvey Belitsky gave us something to think about, while Bussy Spaulding and Richard Johnson were both prolific in producing typical cartoons.

On March 11, seven members of the staff were taken on a conducted tour of the Enterprise building. After viewing the various operations previous to printing, the group visited the WBET radio station.

This year the staff was headed by Managing Editor Jennie Guarino, with Business Manager James Green and Circulation Manager Robert Janson La-Palme. Mr. Ralph G. Johnson acted as Literary Adviser, and Mr. Norman Nash was the Business Adviser.

Library Monitors' Club

The Library Monitors' Club, founded in 1934, this year consisted of fifty-five active members, one of the largest club groups in the school. Led by Miss Evelyn R. Robinson, school librarian, the duties of the club included stamping books and magazines taken out and returned to the library, collecting fines, and keeping an efficient and well-kept library, advantageous to both students and teachers.

During 1946-47 the majority of the members were sophomores, except for a few juniors and one senior, Pauline Renaud, who served for her third year.

Book Week was celebrated by an assembly program during which a well-known authoress, Maribelle Cormack, spoke about "The Adventures of a Scribbler," the story of her career.

Norma Bolotin, who left to become a student at the University of Chicago last fall, vacated the post of President. The officers of the Library Monitors' Club for the rest of the year were as follows: President, Elaine Pitta; Secretary, Barbara Nelson; Treasurer, Roland Cesarini; Executive Committee: Jacqueline Hansen, James Healey, Robert Masson, Delores Benoit, Shirley King and Barbara Fortier.

International Relations Club

The International Relations Club was organized to promote the better understanding of world affairs and to acquaint its members with other countries, their people and their ideas. In this way the club hopes to establish better relations among the nations of the world and to have a thorough understanding of the problems facing the world today.

A full program is planned and carried out each year in order to accomplish these aims. This year the following people addressed the club: Mr. Charles Bosworth, Councilor Mullins, Paul Lohnes, ex-president of the club, now a student at Yale University, David Grossman of Harvard, Private John E. Bates, Miss Ruth T. Cosgrove, Dan Fenn, Jr., Assistant-Dean of Freshmen, Harvard University, and Miss Ruth Staupas. Vice-Consul Ismael Mendez and his family of Guatemala informed the members of the manners, customs, and characteristics of South America, as well as of South America's conception of the United States. In April, the club conducted a lively debate on World Government in the presence of the junior and senior classes.

With Faculty Adviser Miss Edith Sprague the officers of the International Relations Club are as follows: George Adams, president; Virginia Daniels, vice-president; Pauline Renaud, recording secretary; Noreen Mullins, corresponding secretary; James Reardon, treasurer.

Dramatic Club

The thespians of Brockton High School have this year concluded another successful season. One of the largest and most popular club groups in the school, the Dramatic Club keeps busy with the production of skits and plays.

During the holiday season an impressive Christmas pageant was presented to the student body, as well as to the public. Another event of the year was the talk given by Mr. James Hayden, who spoke to the future stars on success in drama. The climax of the activities of the year occurred when the annual Drama Day was presented. "The Bishop's Candlesticks," "Pa's New Housekeeper," and "Queen Anne's Lace" were the three one-act plays produced.

The faculty directors were Miss Rose Condon and Miss Ruth Stokes. The leads in the supporting cast for 1946-47 were the following: President, Irvin Doress; Vice-President, Virginia Daniels; Secretary, Nancy O'Neil; and Treasurer, David Fitzpatrick.

Stagecraft Staff

Without the tireless efforts of the Stagecraft Staff, productions in the B. H. S. assembly hall would be almost impossible. Organized by Mr. Ronald Holt, this group of capable boys and girls, about twenty in number, quietly and expertly carried out the work necessary for making each school undertaking a success.

Some of the jobs fulfilled by the staff were as follows: Arranging scenery, setting the stage, manipulating spotlights, taking charge of the microphone and amplifying devices, maneuvering props and lighting, as well as assisting the participants in the production in various other ways.

In addition to devoting much time to school activities, such as the class play, Drama Day, the Christmas Pageant, and the Junior-Senior Prom, the Stagecraft Staff helped outside organizations during their presentations. Among these were the Merchants' Style Show, Pops Concert, the San Carlos Opera, Community Concerts, and the Rockne Minstrel Show.

These boys and girls have efficiently played a tremendous part in all of our dramatic undertakings, and should rightfully be credited with a share in their success.

Student Advisory Council

The Student Advisory Council, composed of representatives from all of the home rooms, was organized in 1935 by Headmaster John L. Miller. Its purpose is to interpret the policies of the administration to the student body, and to present the ideas of the student body of the administration.

The Council met monthly to discuss problems pertaining to the general welfare of the school. Among the topics of discussion this year were the traffic situation, the new marking system, graduation pictures, dances, and overcrowded ticket lines. The members conducted the annual Junior Red Cross drive, as well as the voting for new Council officers in April. The president, in addition to his regular duties, presided at all assemblies.

The officers for the year 1946-1947 were the following: President, William Coughlin; Vice-President, Marilyn Bridgwood; Secretary, Jane Sprong; Treasurer, George Adams. Executive Board: Seniors—Beryl Fanning, Sally Parmenter; Juniors—Gino Ferrini, Shirley King; Sophomores—Fred Baroncelli, Robert Hallquist. The general adviser was Dean Bernice Sylvester, and the faculty members were Headmaster Ralph W. Haskins, Miss Doris Hathaway, Miss Christine Northrup and Mr. George Laing.

Student Health Council

The purpose of the Student Health Council is to carry on activities which will protect and promote the health of each Brockton High School pupil. During the current year emphasis has been placed on the dental health education program, as well as on environmental hygiene.

Officers are as follows: President, James Green; Vice-President, Herbert Nagle; and Secretary, Paula Lemas.

The faculty adviser is Grace D. Keenan.

Junior Ushers

Last year 52 juniors were named ushers for the Class of '46's graduation exercises. On Class Day, gowned in long white dresses and carrying a daisy chain of their own making, twenty-six girls ushered the graduating class onto the field. On Class Night they served refreshments to the Senior Class. Again, at the graduation exercises, they led the seniors on the field.

Advised by Miss B. Elizabeth Elzbut and headed by Vice-President Claire Sullivan and Secretary Priscilla Churchill, the Junior Ushers were as follows: Marilyn Betts, Jane Brownell, Elena Capachione, Mary Cashin, Patricia Clifford, Jeanne Conroy, Evelyn Coplin, Ellen Eaton, Beryl Fanning, Nancy Gay, Natalie Gennaco, Jennie Guarino, Lillian Kelley, Patricia Kiley, Lois Leach, Mary Long, Mary Maguire, Phyllis Plouffe, Mary Roan, Mary Steward, Lorraine Thomas, Eleanor Tonelli, Meredith Vining, and Joan Weeks.

Twenty-six boys were, as usual, selected last year from the Junior Class, to participate in the graduating exercises of the Class of '46. These boys were, like the girls, selected from the eligible juniors in B. H. S. on the basis of scholarship, willingness to work, and posture. On Class Day they ushered parents of graduates to the grandstand; on Class Night they assisted the girls in serving refreshments to the seniors. At the graduation exercises they again acted as ushers for parents.

Class of 1949

The Class of 1949, 656 in number, successfully completed its first year at Brockton High with the aid of Miss Doris M. Hathaway, class adviser. The first class meeting was held in the auditorium on September 11, when they were oriented with the school rules and regulations.

In November the Class Constitution Committee drew up a constitution which was adopted by the class. Each home room selected a class dues collector, as well as a representative to Student Health and Student Advisory Councils.

On March 5, the candidates for election were presented to the student body. The following officers were the result of the election on March 19: President, Eugene Nawrocki; Vice-President, Niki Eonas; Secretary, Margaret O'Connell; Treasurer, Fred Baroncelli; Executive Committee, Barbara Nelson, Joan Nelson, Charles Barnes, James Healy, and Richard Wainwright.

Yale blue was chosen the official class color and a design for the class banner was accepted. The last duty of the class was the selection of a school gift, made by the Class Gift Committee.

Class of 1948

The Class of 1948, numbering 571 pupils, organized for its junior year in the High School assembly hall with a business meeting on Wednesday, October 2, 1946.

The outstanding social event of the year was "Tropicana," sponsored by the senior and junior classes on January 31, 1946, which also proved to be a financial success. More than two hundred couples danced in the tropical atmosphere created by decorations of peacocks, palm trees, a lagoon, sandy beaches, and a jungle, complete with tiger.

During the year the untiring corps of dues collectors co-operated with the treasurer and succeeded in accumulating more than $1050 in the treasury.

On March 19, 1947, a total of 381 voters re-elected the following class officers: Charles Ball, president; Elinor Neafsey, vice-president; Eva Outchunis, secretary; George Clairmont, treasurer; Patricia Baynes, Mary Ann Cahill, Jean MacDonald, William Collins and Robert Laing, members of the executive committee.

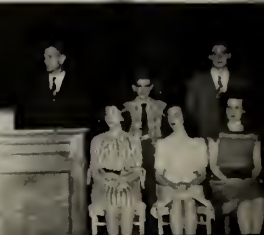

In May the gift committee, comprised of one member from each home room, chose an appropriate gift which was presented to the school on Class Day. Fifty-two junior girls and boys were privileged to participate as junior ushers in the graduation week activities of the seniors.

Miss B. Elizabeth Elzbut served as the class adviser.

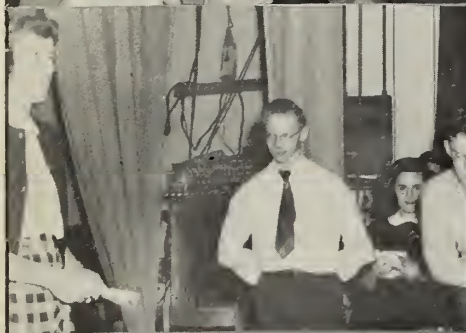

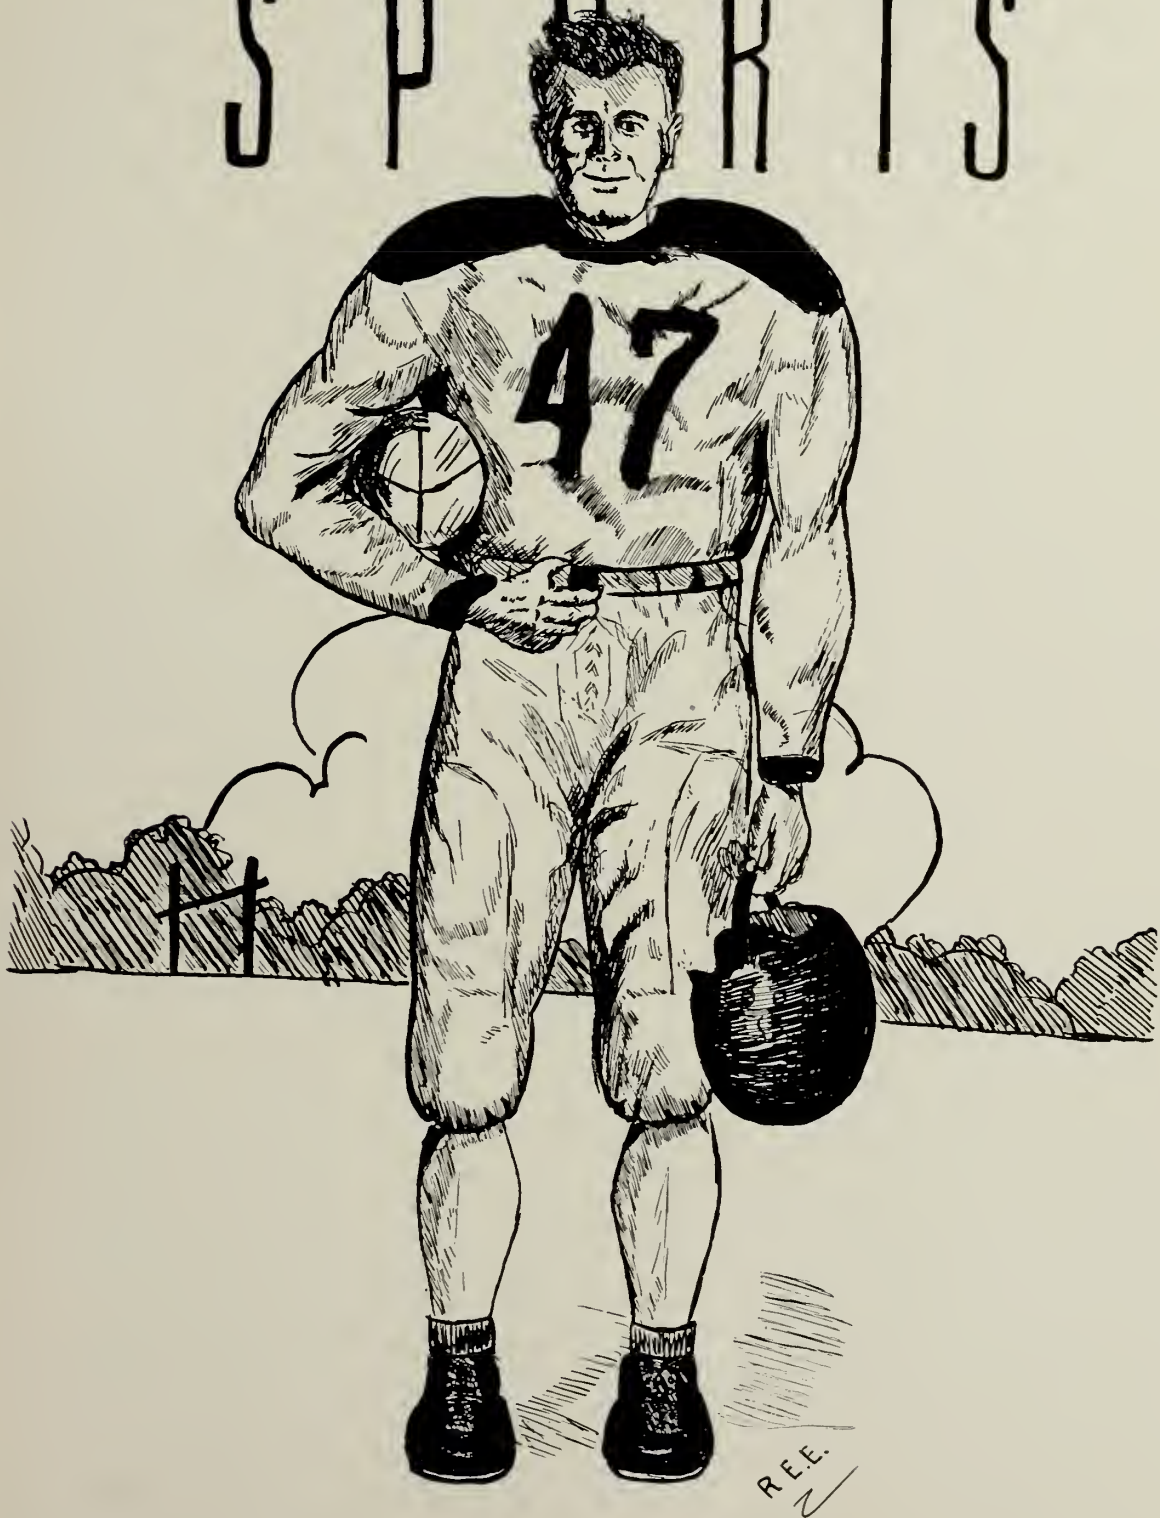

SPORTS

ELDON KEITH FIELD IN WINTER

Football

Old-time Brockton football spectators were amazed to see this year's Red and Black team running plays from the new T-formation. This was one of the changes made in the grid system by the new head coach, Frank Saba. Mr. Saba took over the reins from retiring Coach Roberts and had a fine record in his initial year.

The 1947 team was a fast, powerful unit with a hard-charging line and tricky backfield. The line from end to end included Clark Hallisey, Peter George, Joe Doyle, Dino Colombo, Edgar Pigeon, Snap Jackson, and Moe Hancock. The backfield quintet consisted of Vito Piscuskas, Armand Colombo, Phil Saba, Muzzy Bertocci, and Frank Morrow. This team carried the unbeaten string to sixteen consecutive games before finally bowing to a strong Malden eleven.

The final record of the squad showed eight wins, two defeats, and one tie against the toughest kind of opposition.

The team was honored by having two of its stars, Phil Saba and Joe Doyle, chosen on many all-scholastic teams. A new football regime has been born at Brockton High, and we are all hopeful that it will be as successful as the past one.

Basketball

This year's Brockton High basketball team was one truly representative of the class of 1947 as all of the first six hoopsters were from the senior class. The opening line-up consisted of Herb Nagle and Art Parry at the forward posts, Bob O'Neill at center, Vito Piscuskas and Moe Hancock at the guards, and Jack Buckley as the valuable sixth man.

This team was slow in starting, losing two of its first four games; but then the boys soon got rolling and won all but one of the remaining games. Paced by their high-scoring pivot man, they outscored the opponents 585 to 504 and were potent enough to get an invitation to the annual Tech Tourney.

In the opening game of the Tournament, the fellows showed fine teamwork and excellent shooting to down a hitherto unbeaten Somerville High five. Bob O'Neill, the hero in this game, played a sparkling floor game and tied the tourney record for consecutive foul shots. The next night, however, the men were not so fortunate and went down to defeat in a slow ball game.

The season's record—thirteen wins and four defeats—testifies to the true skill and courage of our team.

Baseball

Coach Charlie Holden had quite an easy job picking the members of this year's Varsity baseball squad as seven of the nine positions were filled by veterans of his last year's team. The positions of catcher and first baseman, vacated by the graduation of Mario DiMarzo and Capt. Lou Goeres respectively, were Coach Holden's only uncertainties; but Lee Towle, a 1946 reserve, and Dino Colombo, regular first sacker of last season's Legion Juniors, took over these positions quite capably. The infield lined up with Finnegan, Belmosto, Nagle, and Colombo; while Pigeon, Morrow and Captain Dom Bertocci patrolled the outer garden. The pitching staff consisted of ace Jack Flanagan, aided by Ed Pellegrini and Bob Adams, all of whom were veterans. Towle did the receiving.

Good fielding, dependable pitching, and batting power made this team a well-rounded ball club, and a real threat to the other schoolboy teams in the league.

Intramural Sports

The first varsity tennis team to take the courts for Brockton High School since 1939 has just completed a full season of competition with great success. The netmen, coached by Gus Wigren and captained by Irving Doress, boasted of a rugged first season schedule including matches with North Quincy, Braintree, and Milton. The team lined up with Bob Price, Bob White, and Captain Doress in the singles; while Lester Williams, George Allen, Ralph Burnley, and William Rautenberg made up the doubles.

Due to the lack of ice throughout the season the B. H. S. intramural Ice Hockey schedule was greatly abbreviated. Coach Carl MacPherson's boys were able to play only four games out of their twenty game schedule. The Rangers, Captained by Tom Nickerson, were leading the league at the season's close with four wins in as many starts. Jim Finnegan led the league in the scoring department.

Although the new varsity Cross Country team was not successful on a "won and lost" basis, it was highly beneficial as a training ground for a group of very promising underclassmen. With the spirit and co-operation shown, Coach Reuell and his hill-and-dalers will have to be watched in the year to come.

Track

The Brockton High School varsity track squad has just completed, with very satisfactory results, its first full season of competition since 1940. After a lapse of several years it took time to build the sport up to its former level, but Coach Howard Sandrock is well pleased with the spirit and co-operation of his 1947 squad and feels that real progress has been made. The squad was composed mostly of sophomores, many of whom showed marked track ability. Mr. Sandrock, therefore, will have some good material with which to build his next season's team. Among the most promising sophomores were Peter Tsokauis and Robert Anderson in the mile run; Robert James in the high jump and low hurdles; Lowell Cobb, Robert Littlefield in the 440-yard dash; John Jeris in the 100-yard dash and broad jump. Vincent Reizian, Melvin Gold, Howard Spencer, and Norman Magnante are other promising candidates.

Outstanding among the juniors were Timothy Kelleher in the high jump and 440-yard dash; John Walsh in the mile; Gerald Wallin, Ernest Orlando in the 100 and 200-yard dashes; Lester Williams in the half mile, and Frank Morrow in the relay and hurdles. Other juniors that show promise for the 1948 season are Lawrence Tormey, Loring Alger, Warren Eklund, Donald Baker, Gordon Glenn, and George Kerr.

Coach Sandrock points with pride to the four seniors—Robert Roland, Robert Campbell, Peter George and Bradford Forsberg—who so diligently helped to make the 1947 track squad a success, and he sincerely regrets that they will not be with the 1948 team.

Golf

The B. H. S. golf squad has shown real class in its first year of revived varsity competition, winning three of the first four matches played. The only team to have defeated them at the time of writing this article was the defending state champ outfit—Dartmouth High.

Mr. Avery led forth a smooth-swinging team with Dick Wallen, Austin McDonnell, Tom Noone, Miles MacDonald, Henry McKenny, Frank Hatch, John Maguire, and Jack Delea. Much is expected of this group of stylists before they graduate.

Girls' Sports

BASKETBALL

They "dood it" again, that fast clicking junior class team! Last year as the victorious sophomore class team and again this year as the junior champs, they whitewashed both the sophomore and senior class teams, capturing the class championship title. Captained by Elinor Neafsey, the bearers of the crown of laurel were Alice Diversa, Blanche Krauchunas, Barbara Litchfield, Janet MacDougall, Marjorie Noone, Phyllis Paulson, Marilyn Peirce, Jane Sprong, Jeanne Thuotte, Marion Walker and Cathlene Willis.

Girls who succeeded in attaining the 100 points necessary for a sweatshirt and a "B" were the following: Seniors—Marjorie Carr, Patricia Clifford, Patricia Hilchie, Katherine Jeris, Louise Juliano, Lily Kirel, Mary Long, June MacKinnon, Phyllis Plouffe, Claire Sullivan, and Eleanor Tonelli; Juniors—Leona Cavanaugh, Barbara Litchfield, Janet MacDougall, Elinor Neafsey, Phyllis Paulson, and Marilyn Peirce.

FIELD HOCKEY

Several afternoons of each week last fall shouts of both pleasure and dismay could be heard from Eldon Keith Field, where 84 senior and junior girls enjoyed field hockey under the direction of Miss Doris Brooks, girls' gym instructor. The game which decided the class championship ended with the tenacious junior team leading their senior opponents 3-1. The interclass champions were the following: Capt. Elinor Neafsey, Eileen Brady, Helen Brady, Jean Brides, Leona Cavanaugh, Mary Creedon, Penelope Deftos, Rosemarie Higgins, Louise Janson-LaPalme, Blanche Krauchunas, Geraldine Lane, Janet MacDougall, Arlene Mandeville, Rose Marie McSweeney, Phyllis Paulson, Gloria Pistone, Marie Porazzo, Mary Prosper, Marjorie Smith, Jane Sprong, Gloria Spadea, Betty St. Lawrence, Jeanne Thuotte and Cathlene Willis.

At the conclusion of the field hockey games, 25 senior girls and 59 juniors were presented "H" awards; the junior winners of the class game received in addition numerals.

SWIMMING

In April the Y. W. C. A. again became a popular place with the girls of Brockton High. For the seventh consecutive year, B. H. S. girls have had the opportunity to receive instruction in beginning, intermediate, and advanced swimming, as well as both junior and senior life saving. Upon the completion of the courses, which were under the direction of Mrs. Winona T. O'Brien, the annual water ballet was presented, including exhibitions by each class.

SENIOR CLASS BASKETBALL TEAM—Captain Patricia Hilchie, Marjorie Carr, Patricia Clifford, Lucille Cormier, Katherine Jeris, Lily Kirel, Phyllis Plouffe, June McKinnon, Claire Sullivan, and Geraldine Tomasello.

SENIOR DIVISIONAL BASKETBALL CHAMPS—Captain Phyllis Plouffe, Lucille Cormier, Patricia Hilchie, Katherine Jeris, Alice McInnis, Mary Rose Riordan, Marie Spillane, and Helen Zotos.

SENIOR CLASS HOCKEY TEAM—Captain Louise Juliano, Marjorie Carr, Patricia Clifford, Adeline Davenport, Jennie Guarino, Katherine Jeris, Mary Louise Long, June McKinnon, Mary Alice Maguire, Phyllis Plouffe, Katherine Reardon, Marise Sawtell, Claire Sullivan, and Fay Walter.

fluenced by a display of wealth or social prestige or worldly power. Every thoughtful boy or girl can easily see that an honest desire for God's approval insures a more tranquil life. So we must practice "what is good, what is fine, what is noble, and what is divine."

Last but not least, love of God will make us realize that we must love our neighbor. Then we shall all recognize that our neighbors are not restricted to our own community, but include the whole world. Therefore, we should do good for others, not harm them; help others, rather than hurt them. God teaches peace, not war. Would that the world could learn this lesson at this crucial moment, when scientists prophesy destruction for us all within five or six years!

Not until these obligations to our work, our homes, our government, and our God are fulfilled, shall we deserve the right to be called fine men and women, awake to duty.

Under the guidance of our teachers, we have been taught high ideals in all these fields. They have made every attempt to prepare some of us for the higher education of colleges and universities; others of our class, for their first full-time employment. They have laid the sub-soil, so to speak, for the actual road we shall travel upon as upright men and women of the future. Now, with their instruction and the help of God, we shall go forward, adding more and more to the foundation our teachers and parents have already given us.

May we succeed in proving worthy of all the sacrifices and efforts that our elders have made, and become active workers in the vineyard of the Lord, assuming our adult place as efficient, kind, and responsible citizens of the United States.
